CHAMPS Charter High School of the Arts Music Education Program Receives National Recognition For Third Consecutive Year

Los Angeles, CA – April 17, 2020 – CHAMPS Charter High School of the Arts has been honored with the Best Communities for Music Education designation from The NAMM Foundation for its outstanding commitment to music education.

Now in its 21st year, the Best Communities for Music Education designation is awarded to districts that demonstrate outstanding achievement in efforts to provide music access and education to all students. To qualify for the Best Communities designation, CHAMPS Charter High School of the Arts answered detailed questions about funding, graduation requirements, music class participation, instruction time, facilities, support for the music programs, Responses were verified with school officials and reviewed by The Music Research Institute at the University of Kansas.

“Music teaches one that it is not practice makes perfect, but rather perfect practice makes perfect,” CHAMPS Principal/Director Linda Pierce said. “This award acknowledges that we are accomplishing our mission and among the best programs in the country.”

This award recognizes that CHAMPS Charter High School of the Arts is leading the way with learning opportunities as outlined in the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA). The legislation guides implementation in the states and replaces the No Child Left Behind Act (NCLB) which was often criticized for an overemphasis on testing-while leaving behind subjects such as music. ESSA recommends music and the arts as important elements of a well-rounded education for all children.

Research into music education continues to demonstrate educational/cognitive and social skill benefits for children who make music. After two years of music education, research found that participants showed more substantial improvements in how the brain processes speech and reading scores than that of their less-involved peers and that students who are involved in music are not only more likely to graduate high school, but also to attend college as well.

Everyday listening skills are stronger in musically-trained children that in those without music training. Significantly, listening skills are closely tied to the ability to: perceive speech in a noisy background, pay attention, and keep sounds in memory. Later in life, individuals who took music lessons as children show stronger neural processing of sound. Additionally, the social benefits from engagement in music include but are not limited to conflict resolution, teamwork skills, and how to give and receive constructive criticism.

A 2015 study supported by The NAMM Foundation, “Striking A Chord,” also outlines the overwhelming desire by teachers and parents for music education opportunities for all children as part of the school curriculum.

Charter High School of the Arts-Multimedia and Performing (CHAMPS) is an independent, tuition-free public charter high school offering arts-infused academic classes, including honors and Advanced Placement courses, located in Van Nuys, CA. To learn more, please visit us at www.champscharter.org.
